COUNTY AGENT

The first hog sale this fall was held Tuesday, and hogs sold at $5.20 basis No. 1. This seems like a very cheap price, and it is cheap, but when we stop to think we realize that the price of hogs is in line with all other commodities. It is my opinion that we will see much cheaper hogs before Christmas. I think it is a good idea to sell hogs as soon as they reach top as long as they are selling at the present prices. However, if hogs decline another cent or two by December, I would advise butchering most of the hogs and curing them. We will probably hold another sale in two weeks. Would like for all farmers who expect to sell hogs at the next sale to list them with me immediately, so that we can determine when to hold the next sale.

It is time for me to place an order for Austrian winter peas and vetch seed. I have very few orders, and will not order any extra seed, as I cannot afford to have them left on my hands. We can buy Austrian peas now at 5 1/2 delivered, and vetch at about 9 cents delivered. I want to again thank farmers for serious consideration to planting some winter legumes, as it is more important this winter than ever before. And let's not wait too late to get the crop in. They should be sown not later than October 15th. If you can spend $2.50 per acre for seed and inoculation and double your corn yield next year, isn't it worth the effort? And don't forget that hairy vetch sown with oats makes the best kind of hay. I hope that we will be able to get more of these crops in this fall than ever before. See me at once about your seed. You are buying them at absolute wholesale price.

E. P. JOSEY, County Agent.

PRESIDENT SENDS MESSAGE TO STATE

GRADE MOTHERS HAVE IMPORTANT INFLUENCE IN SUCCESS OF SCHOOL.

Following is the message of the President of the Georgia Congress of Parent-Teachers Association issued to the organizations throughout the state:

Even the "powers that be" in the Parent-Teacher Association are not of so great importance as the grade mothers, or room representatives. So much we have said to officers and chairmen in the hope of strengthening the local unit. Yet if all these fail, and the grade mothers operate with 100% efficiency, the Parent-Teacher unit will still reach a splendid achievement. The work of the grade mother is continuous, delightful.

Last week when the teachers arrived grade mothers welcomed them royally. That must not be the end of it. It is the first duty of the grade mother to look after the social life of the teacher, even until the train carries her from the scene of her labor at the close of the school term. Then, if she has spent her week ends with opportunities presented through the year, if she has accepted the invitations into the homes of pupils, so tactfully arranged by grade mothers; if she has spent her week ends with the people she serves, teaching in the Sunday school, participating in the simple week-end festivities, realizing that herein lies an opportunity to teach equal if not greater than that offered in the school room, rather than absenting herself continuously from the community in the interest of her own comfort and pleasure, that train will carry, with the teacher, the life-long devotion of old and young alike who have shared her friendship.

There are ways to arrive at such a situation. The tactful grade mother will regularly call meetings of the grade parents, not feeling disappointed if only a few respond. She will enroll all of the parents in the organization, interest them to the point of attending the meetings and arrange for visits to the school room at such time and under such condition as the principal and teacher may direct.

Just at this point there is need for care. Co-operation with the teachers in every project and undertaking is the bulwark of safety for every unit. To visit, or not to visit, must depend upon the welcome in the heart of the teacher in charge. No intrusion can be countenanced. On the other hand, the wise teacher will grasp this glorious opportunity to interpret the child and his needs.

One conversation with the parents reveals more than the parent tells. The latter may be of negligible value, the former is all important.

Such visits to school rooms reveal needs to mother hearts. After one visit it is comparatively easy for grade mothers to secure pots of flowers, pictures, books for the reading shelf, milk, clothing and even food and civil order.

The grade mother who reads this is already overwhelmed. But she need not be. It is her right and duty to appoint committees, enrolling on at least one committee every parent connected with the grade. In the joint service of these committees even the provision for social life of the children of the grade becomes an easy task.

Of course there are special needs connected with every room. Then the great opportunity lies in the tie up with the child welfare group of the association. Next week I shall write to the child welfare department in the hope that such an outline may be of service to them.

If, by chance, this article has in any way served your purpose, I shall be glad to know it.

Associations will please be reminded to take an early and definite part in disposing of the remainder of the food book. Publication of the first issue of the Bulletin must be delayed until after this matter is disposed of. Grade mothers are respectfully requested to give full co-operation in this service.

MRS. R. H. HANKINSON.

A great many authorities are telling us that Germany can pay no more reparations, but it seems to us that this is something for England and France to worry about. Germany doesn't owe us any reparations.

Collins Purchases New State Theatre

Interest attaches to the announcement that E. R. Collins has become sole owner of the new State Theatre, which has been in operation for the past few weeks. The deal by which he became owner was consummated during the present week, when he acquired the stock in the corporation heretofore owned by P. J. and Marvin McNatt, of Vidalia. Mr. Collins has been general manager of the theatre since its establishment here, having associated with the younger McNatt. It is announced that there will be no change in the method of operation.

This compares with an increase of 9.86 per cent for the same companies between the first and second quarters of 1930, and an increase of 25.72 per cent between the same two quarters of 1929. The survey included all industrial corporations whose first and second quarterly earnings were published in the last three years.

In another compilation, six months' earnings of 928 corporations aggregated $1,029,998,912, a decrease of 36.65 per cent from the total of $1,625,890,327 reported by the same firms for the first half of last year. These corporations included: Industrials, 171 railroads, 103 telephone companies, 90 other public utilities, and 38 finance companies other than banks.

Of the 526 industrials, approximately one-fourth, or 131, reported greater profit for the first six months than the same period last year. The total profits of this group, however, dropped $800,498,606 for the first half of 1931 to $304,190,944 for the first six months of 1931, a decrease of 64.50 per cent.

The only two classified groups of industrials to show increased profits over last year were merchandising, which gained 19.23 per cent for the first half, and telephone companies, which showed a 2.66 per cent increase.

Action of the special session, called by Gov. R. S. Sterling to enact cotton relief legislation is being watched with interest by all cotton producing states. Advocates of restricted planting as a means of increasing prices and diminishing supply, point to the fact that Texas produces about one-third of the entire production of the country, and that the state's economy is vital to the success of the movement.

So confident were leaders of the reduction bloc that they prepared today to carry the fight into other southern states. If a compromise reduction bill is passed tomorrow, it is planned to offer a resolution, whereby delegates will be authorized to go from Texas to other states and aid in passing similar uniform acreage measures.

From Louisiana, Governor Long continues to hurl defiance at Governor Sterling and places the Lone Star state and the people at the forefront of the fight to limit their acreage reductions.

In one of a series of radio speeches, most of which have been addressed to the Texas farmers, Governor Long charged Governor Sterling with being "a man who has passed the word to hurt the cotton producer. He said that he "was no dictator and didn't wish to cross state lines," but was preparing to make a list of all members of the state legislature who voted against the cotton prohibition bill.

Commenting on Governor Sterling's threat to veto any prohibition bill adopted by the legislature, Governor Long advised the legislators to pass the holiday bill and stay in session until it was signed.

"Refuse to adjourn. He'll sign that bill faster than a duck ever went to water," Governor Long predicted.

Indications that the legislative reductionists had agreed on the extent of a curtailment program came with minor changes in the Olsen house bill co-operating with the senate coalition reduction measure.

Three bills are expected on the floors of the two branches Monday.

Peasantry Programme
At Methodist Church

A most pleasing program was that rendered Sunday afternoon at the Methodist church when pupils of Prof. Rudolph Jacobson, Savannah, appeared in concert. More than two dozen young people, boys and girls ranging in age from six years upwards, comprised the class of students and gave presentations in concert, in duets and solos. The concert was under the direction of the First National Institute of Violin, Savannah, which institution has established a division at Statesboro under the direction of Waldo Sowell, Jr., of Guyton.

INDUSTRIES SHOW GAIN IN EARNINGS

Merchandising and Phone Companies Reveal Profit Increases.

Cleveland, Sept. 13.—Industrial earnings, compiled on the basis of statements of 200 representative corporations, were 28.7 per cent higher in the second quarter of 1931 than in the first, according to figures announced Saturday by Ernst and Ernst.

This compares with an increase of 9.86 per cent for the same companies between the first and second quarters of 1930, and an increase of 25.72 per cent between the same two quarters of 1929. The survey included all industrial corporations whose first and second quarterly earnings were published in the last three years.

Prominent Savannah Lawyer Kills Self

Savannah, Ga., Sept. 13.—Don H. Clark, lawyer, with a home here and a country home near Guyton, in Effingham county, 30 miles from Savannah, was found dead in his office, 35 Barnard street, this morning with a bullet wound in the right temple.

The coroner said he shot himself. He was found by employees of the building, who had become suspicious after learning of his morose condition. This was caused, it was learned, by serious illness of his daughter, who is now in a local hospital suffering from nervous disease.

Mrs. Lane is recognized as an expert in research and the county is fortunate to have one so capable for historian. During the time that she has been away she has collected several hundred pages of the most interesting and instructive material which will be of great value to her in writing the history of Bulloch.

Mrs. Lane states that the old maps, in the library of Congress, of the English, French and Spanish claims in the "new world" and those of colonies, gave much information leading up to the early settlement here, the old Indian trails, trading posts, etc.

The most interesting records that she has are the applications from this county of soldiers of the War of '76 in the list of places were those involving prohibition violations, there being seventeen in this class, some for intoxications and a greater number for sale.

PROSPERITY BY LAW

When political prophets ask you to vote for some new "sure cure" for the woes of the nation, read the following sane remarks by David F. Houston and thumb your nose at the professional vote seeker who thrives at the taxpayer's expense.

"Some tell us that we are in a new economic era and that old economic laws no longer apply. They told us this in 1929. They tell us the same thing in 1931. What they say now is just about as valid as what they said then.

"They tell us that our institutions are menaced; that we must speedily revolutionize them; and that, if we do not, something will get us, the revolutionist, the communist, or the soviet.

"They tell us that capitalism has failed or is on trial. They do not tell us what they mean by capitalism. Perhaps they do not know. We know that capitalism is wealth saved to aid labor in the production of further wealth. That does not seem to be a very dangerous thing. In fact, it has been through hard work producing wealth and through self-denial resulting in saving wealth that much of the progress of the world has come.

"It is foolish to contrast capitalism with communism or socialism. There is no such contrast. The real contrast is between liberty or freedom and individual initiative and tyranny. "Some of them, ignorant of what is really going on in Russia but much impressed by propaganda, tell us that Russia has a plan and that we must have a plan. They say that we must have a national plan and national planning board. What folly! What men, or group of men, in this country would know how to direct all, or many, of the leading activities of this great nation, and who is so innocent as to assure that, if they were to plan, our people would follow it, unless they could be made slaves? Certainly the federal government could not formulate or direct such a plan. It is none too successful in discharging its constitutional functions. It cannot even run a routine business like the post office without a huge deficit."

ACCIDENT PREVENTION

Bad manners on the part of drivers are held by many authorities to be the principal cause of automobile accidents.

According to traffic engineers and statisticians, the accident rate would drop to a minimum if drivers would display a little courtesy in operating their cars by giving way when other machines are passing, and would discontinue crowding cars coming in opposite directions, the unnecessary use of loud horns, driving slowly in the midst of fast-moving traffic, etc.

A survey conducted by the Albert Russell Erskine Bureau for Street Traffic Research has shown that the automobile itself is least responsible for accidents. Poor brakes, steering and similar factors cause only a small percentage of mishaps. Human nature has not yet adjusted itself to take advantage of the full efficiency and safety of the modern car. Nine out of ten cars involved in accidents are in perfect condition. There is 90 per cent of cases, accidents result from human carelessness, incompetence or bad manners.

Good driving manners can cover a multitude of other failings. The driver who respects passing cars, who attempts to hold an undue share of the road, who has no respect for the rights of the pedestrian or other motorists, is a potential killer and destroyer of property. It is against him that future highway safety campaigns must be conducted if they are to show results.

ARE THE PEOPLE CONCERNED?

It should be fairly common knowledge that eight million people in the United States are directly dependent for their livelihood upon the railroads; that the savings of every savings bank depositor or holder of a life insurance policy are invested to a substantial extent in railroad bonds; that four billion dollars of such bonds are owned by savings banks and insurance companies; that railroads purchase annually six billions dollars worth of goods produced by our industries and farmers; that, in addition, the railroads are the only means of performing an indispensable service to the nation day and night.

THE PROVERBS

Chapter 30
1. The words of Agur the son of Jakeh, even the prophecy; the man spake unto Ithiel, even unto Ithiel and Ucal.

2. Surely I am more brutish than any man, and have not the understanding of a man.
3. I neither learned wisdom, nor have the knowledge of the holy.
4. Who hath ascended up into heaven, or descended? who hath gathered the wind in his fist? who hath bound the waters in a garment? who hath established all the ends of the earth? what is his name, and what is his son's name, if thou canst tell?
5. Every word of God is pure; he is a shield unto them that put their trust in him.
6. Add thou not unto his words, lest he reprove thee, and thou be found a liar.

7. Two things have I required of thee; deny me them not before I die:
8. Remove far from me vanity and lies; give me neither poverty nor riches; feed me with food convenient for me.
9. Lest I be full, and deny thee, and say, Who is the Lord? or lest I be poor and steal, and take the name of my God in vain.
10. Accuse not a servant unto his master, lest he curse thee, and thou be found guilty.

11. There is a generation that curse their father, and do not blush; they are pure in their own eyes, and yet it is not washed from their filthiness.
12. There is a generation, O how lofty are their eyes! and they're eyes are lifted up.
13. There is a generation, whose teeth are as saws, and their jaw teeth as knives, to devour the poor from off the earth, and the needy from among men.
14. The horseleech hath two daughters, crying, Give, give. There are three things that are never satisfied; yea, four things say not it is enough:
15. The grave; and the barren womb; the earth that is not filled with water; and the fire that saith not, It is enough.

16. There are three things which are too wonderful for me, yea, four things which I know not:
17. The way of an eagle in the air; the way of a serpent upon a rock; the way of a ship in the midst of the sea; and the way of a man with a maid.
18. Such is the way of an adulterous woman; she cateth, and wipeth her mouth, and saith, I have done no wickedness.
19. For three things the earth is disquieted, and for four which it cannot bear:
20. For a servant when he reigneth; and a fool when he is filled with meat;
21. For an odious woman when she is married; and a handmaid that is heir to her mistress.
22. There be four things which are little upon the earth, but they are exceeding wise:
23. The ants are a people not strong, yet they prepare their meat in the summer;
24. The conies are but a feeble folk, yet they make their houses in the rocks;
25. The locusts have no king, yet they forth all of them by bands;
26. The spider taketh hold with his hands, and is in king's palaces;
27. The locusts have no king, yet they forth all of them by bands;
28. The spider taketh hold with his hands, and is in king's palaces;
29. There are three things which, go well, yea, four are comely in going:
30. A lion, which is strongest among beasts, and turneth not away from any;
31. A greyhound; a he goat also; and a king, against whom there is no rivalry;
32. If thou hast done foolishly in lifting up thyself, or if thou hast despised thy evil, lay thine hand upon thy mouth.
33. Surely the churning of milk bringeth forth butter, and the wringing of the nose bringeth forth blood; so the forcing of wrath bringeth forth strife.

11. There is a generation that curse their father, and do not blush; they are pure in their own eyes, and yet it is not washed from their filthiness.
12. There is a generation, O how lofty are their eyes! and they're eyes are lifted up.

MORE CO-OPERATION

In the opinion of many qualified observers agriculture is facing the most difficult period in several decades. Great nations, and who is so innocent as to assure that, if they were to plan, our people would follow it, unless they could be made slaves? Certainly the federal government could not formulate or direct such a plan. It is none too successful in discharging its constitutional functions. It cannot even run a routine business like the post office without a huge deficit."

The solution to the present crisis may be found in one word—co-operation. Farmers must work together more closely, and must farm organically. Overproduction of crops and low prices for farm products require mass treatment, if a cure is to be effected.

The advantages of co-operative production and selling is well shown by the Dairyman's League Co-operative Association of New York, a leader in its field. It is estimated that in ten years its members have received $107,200,000 more for their milk than they would have otherwise. The league, by controlling about half the milk of the country, is able to meet distributors on equal terms and assure the dairymen a fair deal.

Agriculture, like industry, has passed far beyond the stage where the individual producer can do business on his own. He must prepare to meet changed conditions with changed methods. Co-operation is the other word for mass action—is the way out.
